WHY DRAMA ENRICHMENT?

In this new digital age, it can be difficult for kids to connect with their own bodies, voices, creativity, and most importantly with each other. That's why theatre is more than just a hobby; it builds skills that grow students' confidence and identity in every aspect of their life. Our enrichment classes explore the basics of theatre through collaborative storytelling, movement, and voice. Through this program, students will work with and develop their skills in self-management, communication, collaboration with others, self-reflection, and naming thoughts and feelings.

As outlined by 'Connecting Arts to Social Emotional Learning' from the Washington Office of Public Instruction, our classes help to develop the following Social Emotional Learning Standards, as linked to Arts Anchor Standards:

SEL Standard 1: Individual has the ability to identify their emotions, personal assets, areas for growth, and potential external resources and supports.

Arts SEL Statement 1: The arts supports students in developing self-awareness by providing space, practice, and support for self-expression and self-reflection including conscious and intentional naming and seeking to understand the thoughts and feelings that the creative process evokes.

SEL Standard 2: Individual has the ability to regulate emotions, thoughts and behaviors.

Arts SEL Statement 2: The arts support students in developing self-management through the exploration and application of new artistic skills.

SEL Standard 3: Individual has the ability to motivate themselves, persevere and see themselves as capable.

Arts SEL Statement 3: The Arts support students in developing self-efficacy through project-based learning that supports their interests, passions, and choices across multiple disciplines.

SEL Standard 5: Individual has the ability to make safe and constructive choices about personal behavior and social interactions.

Arts SEL Statement 5: The Arts support students in developing social management through project-based learning which fosters collaboration, communication skills, and opportunities to resolve conflict.
